From the President's Corner

It just seems like yesterday I attended my first CBC meeting and I now take the helm for 2006. Our club is in its 53rd year and was formed for the object and purpose "to promote cooperation and friendship" among the owners and breeders of the Brittany. Cooperation and friendship will be my focus in guiding CBC.

Our club supports the full spectrum of events in line with the dual dog goal. I would like to see the full membership participating in the events. My personal goal this year is to see a Brittany performing in agility. If we can get more members participating in all events it will offset the increased costs of putting on these events.

I encourage all active members to mentor anyone interested in expanding their Brittany activity. If you feel you would like to show your dog, enter a field trial or hunt test, call or email me and I'll attempt to hook you up with someone that can educate and support you in that endeavor.

It was great to see so many CBC members at the Nationals in Fort Smith and Booneville this year. For being 1500 miles from home, our numbers clearly demonstrated our support of the national club and our love for the Brittany.

Happy New Year,
Tom White

CBC Fall Field Trial

By Linda McDonald

CBC held its annual fall field trial on November 5 and 6 at Castle Butte Wells in California City in the Mojave Desert. The weather was fabulous, clear and mild. We enjoyed stellar performances by the dogs on both courses, good fellowship with friends and great food. Many club members pitched in to make the trial a success. Karen Nelsen masterfully chaired the event with precision planning and organization. Ed Mayhew and Ed Dixon ably managed the courses and kept everything flowing. Bill Landress, Bill Leffingwell and Ellis Herz unerringly gunned. Linda Dixon and Cindy Leffingwell skillfully planted the birds. Shannon Renfree and Lois Mayhew cooked up tasty lunches both days and made sure that breakfast coffee and muffins were out and ready. Saturday night, a gourmet happy hour was hosted by Craig Lewis and Cindy and Bill Leffingwell to honor DC AFC Redline's Tequila Smoker, "Smokey" new dual title, FC Redline's Tequila Twist, "Twister" new field championship and AFC I M A Birdfindin' Babe's JH "Babe" new amateur title. Saturday dinner was hosted by the club and was delicious, thanks to the culinary efforts of Lois Mayhew and Shannon Renfree and the incredible BBQ skills of Bill Landress. Shannon Renfree held a successful raffle featuring some fabulous grand prizes won by lucky participants. Thanks to all the club members that donated fame prizes to make it a success. A special thanks is given to Rozanne Woelm who stepped in and helped Linda McDonald with secretarial responsibilities when she had to deal with some other unforeseen R V troubles. We give a big thanks to the judges for the long hours they spent in the saddle. Of course, we give a huge congratulations to the winners of each of the stakes. We give extra kudos to our junior handler, Dakota Renfree, who took a second place in amateur gun dog with her dog, Dakota's Booker-T. The results of each stake were as follows:

Happy 2006 Everyone!

Welcome to our new officers, chairpersons, and "worker bees"... lots happening in this New Year to keep us all very busy. Welcome to our new members! We hope you enjoy meeting and getting to know members of the club, and joining in with the many activities that we have to participate in. We hope you join with us to help make this newsletter a fun and informative publication for all. That includes you sending in brags of your activities with your dogs. We know you longtime members know how to send in brags, and comments. We have even been known to brag on the birth of a Grand-Baby (human type)! There's no news on the pages of our little paper if we don't hear from you all.

So, as we are busily getting our homes back together after the holidays, and throwing out all the extra candies, cookies and goodies, we look forward to the upcoming trials and hunt tests, and possible new titles for our dogs. The "Spring" show season starts with the Palm Springs show and we'll be seeing some new champions during this new year. We hope to hear from those who compete in Obedience and Agility too. Our Brittanys are truly versatile dogs. Keep track of your placements and points ... the '06 CBC

Tally your 2005 points for the CBC Awards

Score sheets will be in the next issue

Awards year begins now! We wish everyone lots of fun, and the best of luck with all that you do with your Brittanys.

Here's a little piece that has nothing to do with our Brittanys ... but does have to do with good luck, and fun in the New Year!

Be careful What You Eat On New Year's Day!

Were you planning to eat chicken? If you do, you might end up scratching a living in the coming year just like a chicken scratching the ground. Forget those buffalo wings and think nachos or ripple chips and dip. We all know about resolutions but how much do we know about other beliefs, myths and legends that surround New Year's Day.

Damon Jones, Executive Chef at Larks restaurant in the Ashland Springs Hotel, is originally from Alabama. He said that Southerners firmly believe what is eaten on January 1 is worth more than all the good intentions in the world. Traditionally, black-eyed peas representing luck or plenty of pocket change and collard greens representing prosperity or folding "green" are consumed on that day. The no chicken on New Year's Day rule was learned from his Grandfather. And please don't do any laundry either. Washing the clothes of a loved one means that someone close will die that year. But eating pork is guaranteed good luck - just why no one is sure, but a ham hock with those black-eyed peas sounds very tasty.

In China, dumplings represent money; fish and oranges represent the sun. The Jewish New Year, which occurs in the fall, involves the consumption of apples and honey to guarantee a sweet year. The Japanese believe that konbu (seaweed) brings long life as do black soybeans and burdock, lotus and carrot cooked together. Shrimp represents happiness and mochi (pounded rice cake) signifies energy.

Maybe the best thing to do on the first day of the year is to have a positive attitude and believe the best will happen for the next 365 days. But you might want to save that chicken dinner for January 2nd.

Where did I find this interesting information? My friend Pam, who has just moved from Connecticut to Ashland, Oregon. Thanks Pam ... and I hope you all enjoyed it as much as I did!

Remembrances

Robert Avedessian was a member of the CBC for many years. Bobby was a man with a gentle spirit, filled with love for Toni and his family. He worked and fought hard to beat the cancer. Unfortunately, just before Christmas, he was airlifted to Phoenix with pneumonia. The tide turned and he lost his battle on Christmas Eve. We send our sincerest sympathies to Toni and the Avedessian family on the loss of Bob.

We are sorry to note that Ed and Lois Mayhew have lost their NASTRA AFC FC Lobo's Mahogany Blaze. "Woody" was born on 10/29/89 and died on 10/26/05. Our sympathies to the Mayhews.

In the Mail

Hi all CBC members,
I am sending this inquiry as I am facing a sad problem. I am being inundated with requests for Brittany puppies from a wide variety of people. Our SDBC has a web site with a link for breeders and brit puppies. Some folks are looking for hunting dogs, some show, most house/family pets only. People get very excited at the prospect of having a Brittany pup after having researched and discussed it with the family and it is a sad day when I have to give them the news that there are so few brits around in this area. I can convince some to check out Rescue but most do not. I do try to screen a bit and educate the people to some extent. Sooo, I am sending this e-mail to ask all of you to let me know if you have or will be having a litter or know of someone who does. This applies to now and in the future. I will greatly appreciate it. Thanks for your help, 2006 is Brittany Rescue's 15th anniversary. We'd rather be out of business altogether, but as long as Brittanys are being abandoned in shelters or owners call us saying they need to find a place for their dog to go, we'll be here.

In 2005 ABR handled almost 1000 dogs. About 150 of those were in California alone. Some of those were not Brittanys and were sent on to other rescue groups, some were let go due to health or temperament problems, but 760 purebred Brittanys were placed in new homes and at this writing 129 are still looking for homes.

This number grows every year. Part of the growth comes from increased exposure - as more people find out about rescue, more know where to call when they know about a Brittany in need. We get calls from individuals, shelters, vets and other rescue groups. But that simply can't account for all of the increase we see steadily each year. As Brittany lovers, breeders and people who work their dogs - people who are concerned about our breed, we all need to do what we can to help stem this increase in homeless, abandoned Brittanys.

People often contact rescue looking for a dog to breed to their wonderful dog. We appreciate how much their dog means to them and why they would think it is worthy of being bred. But this is an easy call for us. We simply tell them that no rescued dogs are placed intact! For others, that stud fee may look good. Or there may be a dog in the kennel who is great - but she's just one too many. Please consider the lives that will be produced - does this "breeder" have the experience that a responsible breeder should have? are the genetic tests that should be done going to get done? will he take responsibility for the

Brittany Rescue's 15th anniversary

lives produced for their entire lives? or will he consider that once the puppies are off his property they're not his concern any more? Please consider that if you make it possible for that litter to be bred, you are also responsible for the lives produced.

It's true that many of the dogs rescue receives are "backyard bred". But it's also true that almost every pedigree we see has a dog we recognize in the 2nd or 3rd generation....a puppy given to someone who bred it to "a great dog" and then had trouble getting rid of all the puppies produced. Most often, when we get a dog from a known breeder or even one whose grandparent was from a known breeder, we are gratified by the help that breeder gives us when they're contacted. But from these second generation breeders, we almost always hear, "it's not my problem" or "I already have 4 dogs, I can't take another one". Sometimes they're anxious to take the dog back until we tell them that we've spayed or neutered it - then they suddenly have no interest.

Education of the public on finding a responsible breeder and on what getting a Brittany puppy will mean seems like the only logical answer. It's not an easy thing to do - and not one that seemed necessary when nobody knew what a Brittany was. But we all saw the increase in calls about puppies after the world saw a Brittany on TV at Westminster. As much as I enjoyed seeing a Brittany making a snow angel on TV, I was shocked by the number of people who recognized the breed!

More than ever, it seems incumbent on all of us who care about our breed to take any opportunity to tell people about the realities of living with a Brittany. Now that John Q Public knows about our breed, we need to be even more careful about how we place them. And now that the word is out about how great they are - we need to be more vigilant about making sure that potential puppy buyers know that they're NOT for everyone.

Rescue needs you! If you can take in a homeless dog, we'd love to have you; if you can help transport one to a foster home, we'd love to have you. But if the "only" thing you do is to be sure that you educate every puppy buyer and every potential Brittany owner you encounter - you will have done a lot to help rescue -- and our breed in general!
